They too are based on express or tacit pacts, with no natural basis beside the qualifying suitability of some persons to rule and others to be ruled DJN VI. With the growth of the middle classes in the many States of Europe, ever more persons in public and private life had to deal with questions which transcended the frontiers of their home country—businessmen, manufacturers, ship-owners, merchants, privileged trading companies, insurance companies, judges, lawyers, academic jurists, and philosophers.
