We also have excellent links with local, national and international organisations. It will also explore how firms are strategically influencing the regulatory and competitive context in which they operate. The module details given below are subject to change as the University regularly revises and refreshes the curriculum of our taught programmes.

The economic gravity is moving to Asia but west still have lot of the great minds. They must adapt quickly to a new time zone and lifestyle, and be present in each moment. This hands-on minicourse will teach the basics of web programming. The second main theme of the course concentrates on the decisions faced by companies themselves as they participate in the international economy. The cases used in the programme were excellent and helped to expand my mind set. can start by working on our ability to have these difficult conversations. We recommend that each company send employees from different departments and backgrounds to participate in this programme.
