I am lucky that I work in the animal care industry with so many who understand that losing a dog, especially one so special, is going to have a major impact on your behaviour, emotional state and ability to take part in life. So tonight I heard brakes and tires squeal and sugar screaming out in pain. Then two months ago she collapsed, I took her to the emergency clinic and it turned out she had a tumor on her spleen, because of her age the doctors kept pushing for me to put her to sleep, But I didn't want to, I wanted to fight until the end, she had emergency surgery and came out ok, then they sent the tumor to the lab and it came back malignant, the doctors gave her weeks.
